

I am a highly determined entry-level cybersecurity analyst. I first drew interest in the field while I took a course pursuing my Information Technology degree from George Mason University. I pursue this interest further by acquiring my COMPTIA Security+ Certificate and my Google Cyber Security Certificate. Combining my technical skills with my problem solving skills gives me the ability to protect people from malicious attackers.